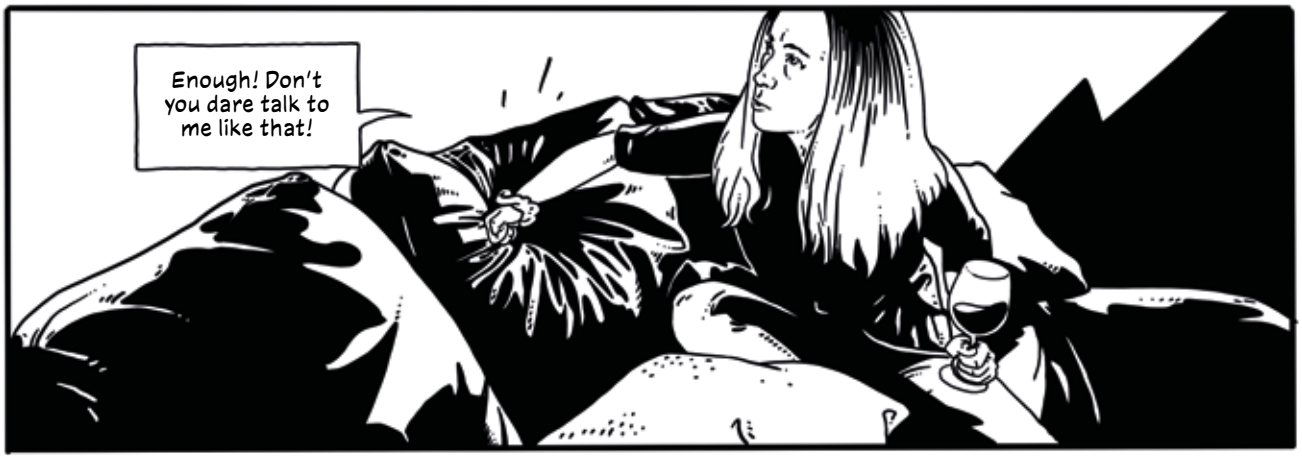
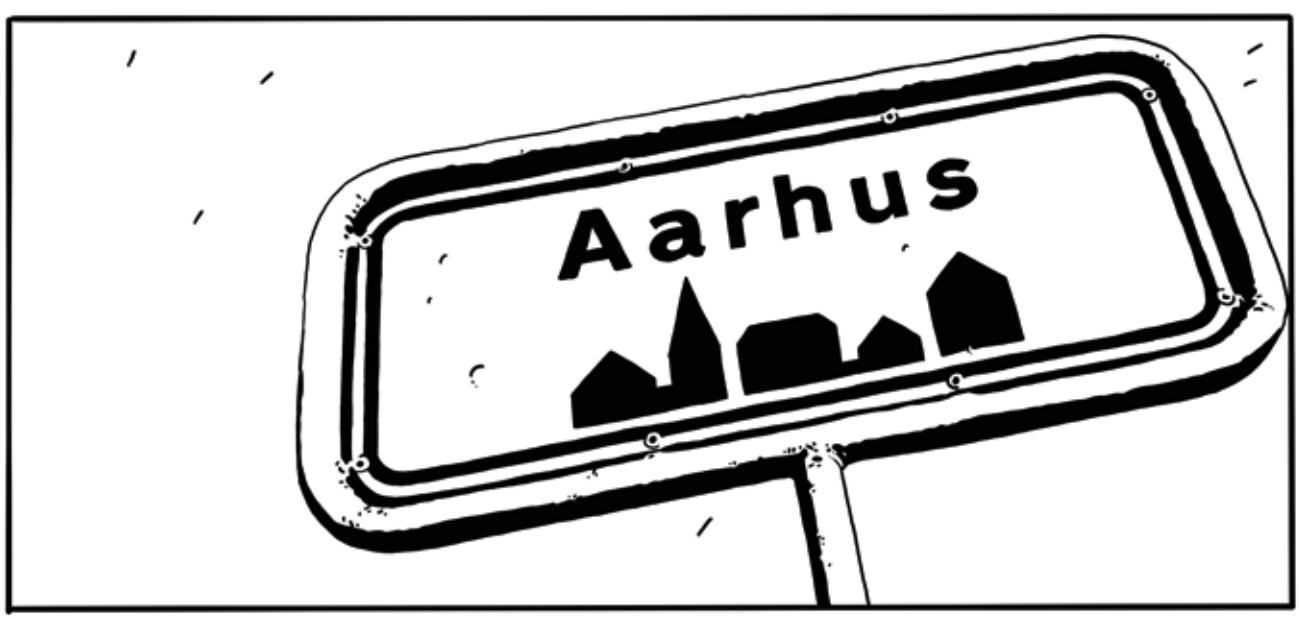
Are you hungry?
Why do you have to talk to me all the time?
Don't you think I'm sad?
You're the coldest person I know.



Enough! Don't you dare talk to me like that!

Shit.

André, can we talk about this? I have an important lecture in Aarhus tomorrow.
Please.



Aarhus

So to wrap up...
We need to take good care of the ocean – because it takes good care of us.
By the way, it was the Danish Nobel Prize winner, August Krogh, who discovered that the ocean regulates CO2 in the atmosphere.

August Krogh was happily married to the same woman his entire life. They conducted research together and respected each other. No superficial online dating here!

Thank you.

I was expecting you.
I came to say that we are moving back to Aarhus.
I have really tried to be a good mother to André out here, but it's not working at all.
Oh... I had grown fond of our conversations.
I guess André is satisfied?
I'll tell him when he comes home from school.

I needed that.
Me too.
I'm really sad that you won't be staying a bit longer.
But you are moving too, aren't you?
No, I have changed my mind. I'm terrified that Philip will hate me.
I get that.
But we can meet up in Aarhus, right?
For sure.
